GETTING LINE ON VOTERS

McGovern Says Several Tenrlessee Counties May Have Whiskey Shops,

BRISTOL, VA., June 20 .- The tem paign in the local option contest with big mass-meeting in State Street chief speakers were the Rev. J. D. McAllister, field secretary of the Virgipla League, and the Rev. M. D. Adams, of Frankfort, Ky., chairman of the league in Kentucky. From this

Adams, of Frankfort, Ky., chairman of the league in Kentucky. From this time forward active work is to be carried on. The poll list is being studied and a committee will be placed in each ward to get a line on the voters.

Where I May Be Sold.

In view of the fact that the Statewide law becomes effective in Tembersee on July I, and referring to the subject of places where it may be possible to dispense whiskey and yet not violate the act, which provides that liquor shall not be sold within four miles of a public school or college, william McGovern, who has been associated with surveys in many of the mountain counties says. "Under the law as passed, I am sure that there are a number of places in the mountains where it will be possible to sell whiskey legally and where licenses cannot be denied in the event they are demanded. Of course, from the viewpoint of reaching the trade, these remote points would be rather inaccessable. From my personal knowledge of the situation in the mountain counties. I am sure that it will be possible to sell whiskey and not violate the new law in one or more places in the following counties: Johnson, Cumberland, Fentress, Rhea, Bledsoe, Sevier, Cocke, Unicol, Carter and possibly, Hancock. The Senator expressed himself as eling beartily in favor of a tax on he earnings of corporations as proseed by President Taft, to provide or the present until an amendment of the Constitution permitting a tax incomes can be passed. He says enator Guggenhelm has told him that e also favors such a measure.

Senator Stephenson expects to be era some time on account of the ealth of his son, and has engaged partments at the Manor in Albemarle 'ark.

"I would give every cent I have it my son's bealth could be restored, he said during the conversation.

Bank Case Up Te-Day.

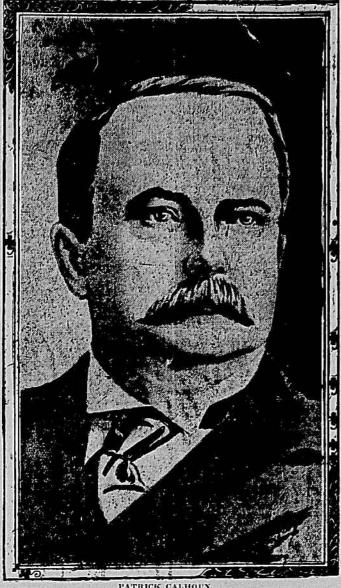

That the old "bank cases" will not end, but will be appealed to the United States Supreme Court if the bill of indictment found at Greensboro twelve years ago against Major W. B. Bresse, former president of the defunct First National Bank of Asheville, is quashed by Judge Newman, is a belief now gaining ground here. Counsel for the defense are ready for the opening of the case to-morrow, and announce that they have little doubt that the case will be forever thrown out of court. It is said that District Attorney Holton has already announced an appeal in the event that the bill of indictment is found defective. This is made possible by, a statute passed a few years ago, which, some say, Mr. Holton was responsible for. No witnesses have as yet been subpoenaed, but it is said that his has no significance in the case. Assistant District Attorney A. L. Coble arrived yesterday with some of the bank books of the defendants.

Terminating in a disagreement of the jury, with ten men for acquittal and two resolved on conviction, the trial of Patrick Calhoun, of the United Rallways, ended at noon to-day Five months and a week had passed since the wealthy street railroad owner, descendents of Patrick Henry, made his first appearance in court to answer to the charge of offering a bribe of $4,000 to a supervisor to obtain an overhead trolley for his corporation. Not until each juror had pronounced as hopeless the prospect of a verdict was the order for their dismissal made by Judge Lawior, prosecution and defense giving assent to the discharge.

Five Ballots Taken.

The trial ended quietly. The defendsent and his attorneys, as well as the chief officers of the prospection, refrained from comment on the disagreement.

Five ballots were taken, three shortly after the jury retired. On the first wook the jury stood eight for acquittian and four for conviction. Two of the four joined the majority on the second ballot, and on a of the remaining two ennounced his determination to remain out a month if necessary.
